

Student Name _____

Ph.D. Program in Egyptology

Preparation: It is advisable to acquire a reading knowledge of French and German before beginning the study of Egyptian.

Course Requirements: Students qualifying for admission of candidacy for the Ph.D. in Egyptology should have taken the following courses or done equivalent work by the time they take the four-year examination. Some of the work can, of course, be taken as an undergraduate.

Course number and Quarter Completed

_____	Introduction to Middle Egyptian-1
_____	Introduction to Middle Egyptian-2
_____	Middle Egyptian Texts-1
_____	Middle Egyptian Texts-2
_____	Introduction to Hieratic
_____	Introduction to Old Egyptian
_____	Introduction to Coptic
_____	Coptic Texts
_____	Introduction to Late Egyptian
_____	Late Egyptian Texts
_____	Introduction to Demotic
_____	Demotic Texts
_____	400-level course in Egyptian _____
_____	400-level course in Egyptian _____
_____	400-level course in Egyptian _____
_____	400-level course in Egyptian _____
_____	400-level course in Egyptian _____
_____	400-level course in Egyptian _____
_____	Egyptian History
_____	Egyptian History
_____	Egyptian History
_____	Note: History requirement includes history seminar offered at Least once in two years where appropriate
_____	Art or Archaeology of Egypt
_____	Art or Archaeology of Egypt
_____	Art or Archaeology of Egypt
_____	History or Archaeology of Western Asia or Aegean
_____	History or Archaeology of Western Asia or Aegean
_____	History or Archaeology of Western Asia or Aegean
_____	Second Language _____
_____	Second Language _____
_____	Second Language _____
_____	Second Language _____
_____	Second Language _____
_____	Second Language _____
_____	Note: Usually Akkadian, Hittite, Hebrew, Arabic or Greek
_____	Additional Work in Ancient _____
_____	Near Eastern History, _____
_____	Art and Archaeology, _____
_____	Religion, or Linguistics _____

Note: A full load of three courses a quarter should leave the student time to pursue other subjects by auditing courses or studying on his/her own. It is expected that students will be reading extensively in addition to assigned course work, since no program of courses can possibly cover all the materials a student should know.

Student Name _____

For the purpose of specialization within Egyptology, the following historical periods are designated together with their corresponding stage of the Egyptian language:

Period of Interest	Language of Interest
Old Kingdom	Old Egyptian
Middle Kingdom	Middle Egyptian
New Kingdom	Late Egyptian
Third Intermediate Period	Late Egyptian
Saite-Ptolemaic Period	Demotic
Roman Period	Demotic or Coptic

Comprehensive examinations

The comprehensive exams in Egyptology will consist of the following:

1. Language of the Period of Interest (full)
2. Civilization of the Period of Interest (half)
3. One exam in each of the other four stages of Egyptian language that fall outside of the Period of Interest (four half exams)
4. Hieratic (half; may be combined with Middle or Late Egyptian)
5. Egyptian History of all periods (full)

Minimum Course Requirements:

The following course sequences have the specified minimum requirements:

Second Language: B (3.0) average overall in three courses at the second-year level of the language; or, if prior competency is claimed at admission to the program, a B (3.0) average overall in two courses at the third-year level

Ancient Near Eastern History: B (3.0) average overall in the one-year sequence

Art and Archaeology of Egypt: B (3.0) average overall in three courses